KYLE ROBERTSON
GRAPHIC & DIGITAL DESIGNER
LONDON, UK

A LITTLE ABOUT ME

My name is Kyle. I am a Scottish designer currently based in London. When it comes to my work, I like to have my fingers in many different pies. My academic background is in Graphic & Digital Design, but I frequently moonlight in various other fields such as video, motion graphics and web development.

I believe that all good design should engage and communicate with people. I always ensure that I'm always on brief to deliver a fully considered idea-driven solution that's both relevant and beneficial to the client's business.

EXPERIENCE

APRIL 2011 – AUGUST 2013
WOLFFE
Graphic & Digital Designer / Account Manager

Wolffe is a brand and communications agency based in the heart of Edinburgh's old town run by the former creative director of Tayburn Andrew Wolffe.
During my time at Wolffe, I worked as a designer and account manager. I was also made head of digital due to my experience with designing websites and my thirst for working in more of a digital environment. This gave me more experience working with and over other talented designers on joint and individual projects.

AUGUST 2013 – JANUARY 2015
HEEHAW DIGITAL
Senior Graphic & Digital Designer

Heehaw is an Edinburgh based creative agency specialising in delivering all digital communications as well as print and video production. Working as a senior designer gave me the opportunity to have a big influence on all design and creative output, leading a team of designers on projects from start to finish. I have led projects for Lothian Buses, AVG technologies, and Exova.

FEBRUARY 2015 – PRESENT
BRITISH FILM INSTITUTE
Senior Graphic Designer

I moved to London early in 2015 to join the British Film Institute on the Southbank as part of their in-house design team. My love of movies and design made this an easy choice. In this time I helped design the creative for the London Film Festival, as well as some of the biggest film seasons such as Steven Spielberg, Martin Scorsese and Quentin Tarantino.
